The Centre for Europe at University of Warsaw was established in October 1991 as one of the very first institutions of its kind in Poland. The Centre is an autonomous inter-faculty institute specializing in European Studies.

OBJECTIVES AND PRIORITIES

The Centre for Europe focuses its research and teaching activities on political, economic, legal as well as cultural and social aspects of European development, within an interdisciplinary framework.

The Centre’s main research areas include: the European Union’s position and role in international relations, its security and neighborhood policy, the financial dimension of integration and the extension of the Euro zone, the EU’s role in international trade, the legitimization and democratization of the EU, globalization and governance in the EU and the development of civil society in times of globalization, European cultural heritage, anthropology of a New Europe.

The Centre’s primary objectives are to promote, initiate and support research and education in European Studies; develop the European and international collaborative research network; and create a broad forum for the exchange of ideas.

STAFF

The Centre’s highly qualified staff consists of prominent academics and promising young researchers. It is also supported by members of several University of Warsaw faculties and as such, serves as a bridge between traditional academic disciplines and as a valuable meeting ground for staff and students.

TEACHING AND RESEARCH

The Centre for Europe educates about 800 students and currently offers BA, MA and postgraduate programmes in European Studies. It has been among the first academic institutions in Poland to offer e-learning courses. Graduates of the Centre for Europe are very well prepared for work in Polish, European and international institutions.

The Centre runs training courses and carries out research projects commissioned by Polish and EU institutions, as well as in collaboration with leading scientific institutions at home and abroad; organizes conferences, panel debates and seminars attended by leading specialists in European issues.
The Centre for Europe publishes two scientific periodicals: the “Studia Europejskie” (European Studies) quarterly in Polish and in English “Yearbook of Polish European Studies”. Apart from this it issues several book series including monographers, textbooks and printed series of course lectures. The Centre’s publications are delivered to libraries of the European Commission, the European University Institute in Florence and other university libraries in Oxford, Berlin, Bremen, Mannheim, Bonn, Nancy, Montpellier and Bergen.

The Library of the Centre for Europe, along with the European Documentation Centre (EDC) which it incorporates, has its own databases, CD-ROM databases, access to online databases and one of the largest collection of books on the subject of European Studies. The European Commission granted the EDC a status of Specialized European Documentation Centre. It is one of 17 such Centres in Poland. The Library’s collection includes publications and documents of the European Communities in English, that have been sent by the Office for Official Publications of the European Communities since 1991, as well as Polish and foreign books on European integration. In 2006 the Library’s collection consisted of nearly 12 thousand volumes of books and 300 subscriptions of periodicals.

The Centre has built up a vast and extensive network of international contacts and co-operation with the most prestigious academic centers and institutes. The Centre actively participates in the exchange of students and teachers under the ERASMUS programme. Among its partners are the universities of: Maastricht, Lisbon, Montpelier III, Barcelona, Vienna, Paris VIII, Bamberg, Tübingen and Siena. The Centre hosts visiting professors from around the world.

The Centre is affiliated with a network of European academic institutions offering degrees in European Studies. It co-operates with major European institutions, most notably the European Commission and the Council of Europe.

Further information for applicants:
Dorota Jurkiewicz-Eckert
e-mail: d.eckert@uw.edu.pl