

Information About the Authors

Kamil Zajączkowski – Ph.D., Associate Professor, Director of the Centre for Europe of the University of Warsaw for the 2020–2024 term (between 2016–2020, he was the Deputy Director of CE UW for Research and International Cooperation). His research interests focus on the following problems: the role and position of the EU in the world, EU relations with the countries of Sub-Saharan Africa, and development aid, and he is the author of several dozen scientific publications on these subjects. He has participated in numerous international research projects, and is the former manager of three projects under grants from the Polish Ministry of Foreign Affairs. He has provided lectures at over 20 European and Asian universities, including those in Paris, Istanbul, Indonesia, and China. He is a member of several scientific councils of foreign journals including the “On-line Journal Modeling the New Europe” journal. A commentator on international affairs on radio and television.

Agnieszka Legucka – Doctor Habilitatus, and a senior research fellow of the Russia in Eastern Europe Program at the Polish Institute of International Affairs (PISM). She is an associate professor of security studies at the Faculty of Business and International Relations in the Academy of Finance and Business Vistula in Warsaw. She is also deputy editor-in-chief of the journal “Sprawy Międzynarodowe” [International Affairs]. She was vice-rector at the National Defence University in Warsaw from 2015 to 2016. She holds two master degrees in International Relations (2002) and East Studies (2003), obtained from Warsaw University. She obtained a Ph.D. in Security Studies at the National Defence University in 2005. In 2014, she received her habilitation (a senior doctorate) from the National Defence University. Her areas of expertise include Russian foreign and internal policy, security issues and conflicts in the EU’s Eastern Neighbourhood, EU-Russia and NATO-Russia relations, Russian disinformation, and hybrid threats. Her recent work includes monographs and several analytical studies concerning the domestic and foreign policies of Russia, including the report “Kremlin Kids: The Second Generation of the Russian Elite” (PISM, 2019).

Agata Włodkowska – Doctor Habilitatus, graduating from the Faculty of Political Science and Journalism at the University of Warsaw in 2002. Since 2005, she has held a Ph.D. in International Relations from the University of Warsaw. In 2014, she received her habilitation (a senior doctorate) from the Faculty of Political Science and International Studies at the Nicolaus Copernicus University in Torun. Her key research areas concern: international relations and security in the post-Soviet space, the Russian Federation and the post-Soviet states' foreign and security policy, Poland's foreign policy, and the feminist approach in international relations. She is the co-author and coordinator of the project Women in Polish Political Science. From Diagnosis to Cooperation. She is the author and editor of numerous articles and books.

Tomasz Stepniewski – Doctor Habilitatus (Polish Academy of Sciences, Warsaw, Poland), Associate Professor at the Institute of Political Science and Public Administration, Faculty of Social Sciences, The John Paul II Catholic University of Lublin, and Deputy Director at the Institute of Central Europe in Lublin (www.ies.lublin.pl), Poland. Prof. Stepniewski has been involved in a number of research-projects dealing with development in the post-Soviet space while at the same time engaged (by invitation) in expert-level discussions and negotiations on related issues. A former research fellow at the Harvard Ukrainian Research Institute in 2005, 2006, and 2015, Carnegie Moscow Centre, and others. His main research interests include the EU's policy towards its eastern neighbourhood, international relations of the Commonwealth of Independent States, and Russia's policy towards Eastern Europe. His most recent publications include Stepniewski, T. and Soroka G. (eds.) (2018), Ukraine after Maidan, and Revisiting Domestic and Regional Security, Ibidem-Verlag, Columbia University Press (ibidem-Verlag's book series "Soviet and Post-Soviet Politics and Society" – SPPS edited by Andreas Umland), Vol. 188, Stuttgart.

Andrzej Szabaciuk – Ph.D., Historian and political scientist. Assistant Professor at the Department Political Theories of Eastern Studies, Institute of Political Science and Public Administration at the John Paul II Catholic University in Lublin. Senior Analyst, the Department of Eastern Europe, at the Institute of Central Europe in Lublin. An intern at the Institute of Sociology, Russian Academy of Sciences (2013), and the Ukrainian Catholic University (2013). A visiting fellow at the Nanovic Institute for European Studies at the University of Notre Dame, USA (2019). Research interests: international relations within the post-soviet area, the security of the Eastern European region, migration, ethnic and religious policies, the situation of national and religious minorities in the East, and the role of the Catholic Church in the socio-political life of the countries of the former Eastern Bloc.

Agata Domachowska – Associate Professor (dr hab., prof. UMK) at the Faculty of Humanities (Nicolaus Copernicus University, NCU) and a senior analyst at the Institute of Central Europe (Department of the Balkans). The recipient of numerous scholarships and grants from prestigious institutions, including the Kosciuszko Foundation in New York, the 2015 ASEEES Davis Travel Grant, the Polish Ministry of Education, and the Ministry of Education and Culture in Croatia; and has conducted research at the University of Pittsburgh, George Washington University and the Humboldt University of Berlin as well as in the archives and libraries of Serbia, Montenegro, Albania, Macedonia, and Croatia. She has also completed an internship at the European Parliament and a training stay at the Polish Embassy in Tirana (Albania). A head of The Laboratory for the Study of Collective Memory in Post-communist Europe (POST-COMER), and the Polish Commission of Balkan Culture and History. Her research focuses on identity and historical narratives, nation-building and the politics of memory in the Western Balkans, Balkan diasporas, and the politics and culture of the Western Balkan states.

Mārtiņš Vargulis – is a lecturer at Rīga Stradiņš University. He holds an MA in International Relations and currently continues his Ph.D. studies at Rīga Stradiņš University. In his academic career, he has focused on issues concerning Russia (particularly security, economy, and soft power), the World Trade Organization, NATO and Security-related issues, as well as the European Neighbourhood. He is the author of numerous articles and the editor of several books. He is also a Researcher at the Latvian Institute of International Affairs. In his long-standing professional career as a representative at the Ministry of Defence of the Republic of Latvia, he has been Head of Defence Policy and Strategy Section as well as Diplomat at the Permanent Representation of the Republic of Latvia to NATO and the EU.

Justyna Godlewska-Szyrkowa – Ph.D., is an Assistant Professor at the Faculty of Political Science and International Studies at the University of Warsaw. She is a Rector's Proxy for Quality of Education and deputy chair of The University Teaching and Learning Council. Previously, she served as Deputy Dean for Student Affairs at the Faculty of Political Science and International Studies. Her research interests focus on public policy in areas such as migration policy, social policy, education policy, education and the labour market, and education in the digital age. Ms Godlewska-Szyrkowa has extensive experience in social research projects, especially regarding educational migration, refugee integration, vocational education, and the labour market. Recently, she has mostly been engaged in various initiatives aimed at improving the quality of higher education.

Özgün Erler Bayır – the holder of a Ph.D. in International Relations, and is an Associate Professor at Istanbul University, Political Sciences Faculty. She is Jean Monnet Module Chair on the “Future of the EU: Security, Economy and Transatlantic Relations” FUTUREU. Her main areas of specialisation are Central and Eastern European Politics, European Studies, Diplomacy and Foreign Policy Analysis. Her Ph.D. thesis is called “Dilemma between Atlanticism and Europeanization in Poland’s Foreign Policy”. During her Ph.D. research, she spent a year at Warsaw University and learned the Polish language at POLONICUM at Warsaw University. She was a publication coordinator of the book “Turkish Foreign Policy Analyses in 21st Century”. She has participated in many international conferences such as CEEISA, WISC, and IBAC among others. She has written several book chapters both in Turkish and in English. She was the coordinator of an international project named “Poland and Turkey in Europe: Common Targets, Different Experiences” sponsored by the Ministry of Foreign Affairs of Poland. She was also a Science Diplomacy Advisor of the Academic and Scientific Cooperation Project of Turkey (TABIP) hosted under the auspices of the Presidency of the Republic of Turkey.

Kevser Mermer Akmaz – a research scientist in The Scientific and Technological Research Council of Turkey, and continues her master’s studies in Istanbul University Political Science and International Relations department. Her master’s studies mainly focus on international security on space and astropolitics. She has written papers called “World Trends of Space Activities’ and Space Economy”, and “Usage Areas of Renewable Resources: Geothermal Energy”. She has R&D project experience on sector analysis, sectoral strategy development, digital transformation projects, and developing target marketing strategies. She conducts workshops, focus group meetings, surveys, and interviews in national programs and regional projects.

Özgür Aktaş – a Ph.D. candidate of Political Science and International Relations at Istanbul University. He is the holder of a Council of Higher Education Scholarship, a scholarship program designed to foster scientific projects in universities and a Ph.D. Scholarship of The Scientific and Technological Research Council of Turkey. He is working on the preparation of new national and international projects. In his master's thesis, he analysed the Turkish-Kurdish peace process during 2013–2015 through the use of different game theory models. His research interests are on International Relations Theory, EU Studies, and Conflict Resolution.

Bożena Gierat-Bieroń – Professor and lecturer at the Institute of European Studies, Jagiellonian University, Krakow, Poland. Professor Gierat-Bieron has been a visiting scholar at Trinity College, Dublin (Ireland), Glasgow University (the UK), Groningen University (The Netherlands), Sassari University (Italy), the University of Leuven (Belgium) and Osaka and Kobe Universities in Japan. She has also served as the co-ordinator of an MA Euroculture Programme (a European Consortium of the following prestigious Universities: Groningen, Gottingen, March Bloch, Strasbourg, Uppsala, Bilbao, Olomouc and Udine). Her main academic interests are European Models of Cultural Policies, the EU Cultural Policy, and the theory of Europeanisation. Prof. Gierat-Bieron has authored 6 books and more than 46 articles. She has worked for the National Centre of Culture in Warsaw, Poland, as well as the Collegium Civitas in Warsaw, and participated in various international scientific conferences and projects. She is currently a Director of the Cultural Diplomacy Post-Graduate studies.